the years following the fall of suharto have been full of promises of liberation but also apprehension for the future the period brought an unprecedented rise in the public profile of islamic politics new and public debates on past human rights violations protracted and irrevocable divisions within top political elite the rise of asian popular culture and a digital communication revolution passionately welcomed by young indonesians along with youths all around the world identity and pleasure the politics of indonesian screen culture critically examines what media and screen culture reveal about the ways urban based indonesians attempted to redefine their identity in the first decade of this century through a richly nuanced analysis of their expressions and representations across screen culture cinema television and social media it analyses the waves of energy and optimism and the disillusionment disorientation and despair that arose in the power vacuum after the dramatic collapse of the militaristic new order government the overall narrative provides much reason for optimism but it also suggests that the deep reservoir of creativity that gave rise to indonesia s local hybrid modernities has been targeted by competing grounds of modernists who favour a narrow definition of what it means to be indonesian a co publication with the center for southeast asian studies kyoto university maskulinitas is a ground breaking treatment of the representation of men and masculinity in indonesian culture from suharto s new order era to the present the book includes critical analyses of indonesian cultural expressions in literature cinema society and politics drawing on the ideas of bakhtin bourdieu maier and others author marshall clark explores with acute insight and a critical eye constructions of the masculine in contemporary indonesian society maskulinitas also challenges the way scholars of indonesia have held firm to the categories and frameworks of gender studies a field still often equated with women s studies while offering fascinating insights into representations and images of men as engendered and engendering subjects as a timely addition to the generally conservative field of scholarship on gender in southeast asia maskulinitas demonstrates that gender studies need to encompass the man question especially considering indonesia s strongly patriarchal society where the norms of feminine subordination and submission are legitimized by the ideologies of the state and the strictures of religion ultimately this book challenges the reader with the notion that if the subordinate status of indonesian women is to be highlighted and some sort of gender equality achieved then the representations subjectivities and practices of indonesian men must be addressed
